The United States Attorney charges:

At all times relevant to this Information:

INTRODUCTION

1. Defendant ARTHUR LAMAR ADAMS (“ADAMS”) is a resident of Mississippi who was involved in the timber industry and whose primary place of business is in Madison, Mississippi.

2. In 2009, ADAMS formed and was the sole owner of Madison Timber Fund, LLC, a Mississippi Limited Liability Corporation. Madison Timber Fund, LLC, was administratively dissolved in 2017.

3. In 2011, ADAMS formed and was the sole owner of Madison Timber, LLC, a Mississippi Limited Liability Corporation. Madison Timber, LLC, was administratively dissolved in 2017.

4. In 2012, ADAMS formed and was the sole owner of Madison Timber Properties, LLC (“Madison Timber Properties”), a Mississippi Limited Liability Corporation based in Madison, Mississippi.

THE SCHEME AND ARTIFICE TO DEFRAUD

5. Beginning at least as early as 2011 and continuing through April 2018, in the Northern Division of the Southern District of Mississippi and elsewhere, the defendant, ARTHUR LAMAR ADAMS, aided and abetted by others, did knowingly and intentionally devise a scheme and artifice to defraud investors by soliciting millions of dollars of funds under false pretenses, failing to use the investors' funds as promised, and misappropriating and converting investors' funds to ADAMS'S own benefit and the benefit of others without the knowledge or authorization of the investors.

6. Defendant ADAMS falsely and fraudulently represented to investors that Madison Timber Properties was in the business of buying timber rights from landowners and then selling the timber rights to lumber mills at a higher price. The object of the scheme was to cause persons to invest in loans that purportedly were for the purpose of financing such contracts for the purchase of timber rights to be sold to lumber mills. In fact, neither ADAMS nor Madison Timber Properties had such timber rights or contracts with lumber mills, except in only a few instances. In furtherance of the scheme and artifice to defraud, ADAMS falsely and fraudulently represented to investors that their money would be invested in the purchase of such timber rights, when defendant ADAMS then and there knew that the money would not be so invested.

7. In furtherance of the scheme and artifice to defraud, defendant ADAMS entered into investment contracts with investors, most often in the form of promissory notes on behalf of Madison Timber Properties. The loans typically guaranteed investors an interest rate of 12 to 13 percent, which was to be repaid to investors over the course of twelve to thirteen months. The monthly payments due on these promissory notes were typically due on either the first or the fifteenth of the month.

8. In fact, this was a sophisticated Ponzi scheme. Instead of investing investors' money, ADAMS used the invested funds for his personal benefit and for purposes other than those represented to investors. During the scheme and artifice to defraud, defendant ADAMS fraudulently obtained well in excess of one hundred million dollars ($100,000,000) from more than 250 investors located in at least 14 different states.

9. In furtherance of the Ponzi scheme, ADAMS created false documents to lull investors into believing that their investments were secured by sufficient collateral from which they could recover all or part of their investment in the event that Madison Timber Properties defaulted on the loans. Specifically, ADAMS created false timber deeds purporting to be contracts conveying timber rights from landowners to Madison Timber Properties. ADAMS forged the signatures of landowners, whose names were obtained from timber maps. ADAMS also created false timber deeds purporting to convey those timber rights from Madison Timber Properties to the investors. In fact, Madison Timber Properties did not hold valid timber rights on the parcels of land described in the false timber deeds which ADAMS created. To further lull investors, ADAMS had many of the documents notarized to make the investments appear legitimate. To further conceal the scheme, ADAMS required the investors to agree not to record their timber deeds unless Madison Timber Properties defaulted on the loan agreement by failing to make a payment. In many instances, ADAMS also provided a "timber cruise summary" purporting to state the value of the timber located on a particular parcel of land. These "timber cruise summary" documents were also false and had been created by ADAMS to induce investors to give money to ADAMS under false or fraudulent pretenses.

10. Instead of using the money for the purpose of cutting timber, ADAMS used the proceeds for other fraudulent purposes and to further the scheme, including but not limited to making payments due and owing to other investors. For example, on November 21, 2017, the balance in the bank account of Madison Timber Properties at the First National Bank of Clarksdale, Mississippi, was $34,506.16. Madison Timber Properties then obtained six million dollars ($6,000,000) in investor funds via interstate wire transfer on November 27, 2017. At the direction of ADAMS, on November 28, 2017, First National Bank of Clarksdale wired in interstate commerce two million dollars ($2,000,000) from the Madison Timber Properties account at that bank to the Madison Timber Properties account at Riverhills Bank. The following day, on November 29, 2017, at the direction of ADAMS, First National Bank of Clarksdale wired in interstate commerce three million dollars ($3,000,000) from the Madison Timber Properties account at that bank to the Madison Timber Properties account at Riverhills Bank. Unknown to the investors, these investor funds were then used, as directed by ADAMS, primarily to make payments to other investors that were due on December 1, 2017, under previously existing promissory notes. At other times, ADAMS had less than $1,000 in the accounts of Madison Timber and was only able to perpetuate the scheme and artifice to defraud by fraudulently obtaining additional investor funds or by obtaining loans from banks.

11. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant ADAMS paid commissions to recruiters who referred investors to ADAMS. The commissions were paid from investors' money. For example, ADAMS paid one recruiter approximately two million four hundred forty-five thousand four hundred and forty-nine dollars ($2,445,449) in commissions in 2017 alone. ADAMS paid another recruiter approximately one million six hundred twenty-eight thousand one hundred dollars ($1,628,100) in commissions in 2017. Many recruiters also invested their own money in ADAMS'S fraudulent scheme.

12. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant ADAMS lulled and persuaded investors to maintain their investments and to invest additional funds by making payments to some investors by way of post-dated checks.

13. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant ADAMS lulled and persuaded investors to maintain their investments and to invest additional funds by making payments to some investors via interstate wire transfers of funds.

14. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant ADAMS received investor funds via check and interstate wire transfer into the Madison Timber Properties bank accounts and then converted the funds to his own personal use, contrary to the representations made by defendant ADAMS to the investors.

15. It was further part of the scheme and artifice that defendant ADAMS diverted and used the investors' funds for his own benefit, including personal expenses unrelated to any investment in the purchase or sale of timber and also including investments in real property in his own name and for his own benefit rather than the benefit of his investors.

16. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that ADAMS, and others aiding and abetting him, took actions to conceal the true nature of the fraudulent scheme. After a bank raised questions about the nature of the business of Madison Timber Properties and the source of its income, ADAMS set up additional bank accounts and directed investors to write checks and to wire funds to the new bank accounts. To conceal the true nature of the fraudulent scheme and to conceal the source of the funds, ADAMS and others directed by him would then transfer the investor funds to an account at Riverhills bank that was then used to make payments to investors and for other purposes as directed by ADAMS.

17. It was part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant ADAMS intentionally failed to disclose to investors that he was using their money to pay earlier investors and that he was using their money for his own personal purposes rather than for business purposes. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant ADAMS lulled and persuaded investors to maintain their investments and to invest additional funds by timely paying investors with money fraudulently obtained by ADAMS from other investors.

18. It was part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant ADAMS knew and intended that his false and fraudulent pretenses, representations, and promises would induce investors to entrust money to him and would cause them to suffer financial losses while he benefited from the fraudulent scheme.
